Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 23 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Very warm with hazy sunshine, heavy rain arriving later.

Today:
Dry for most with plenty of sunshine, hazy at times. Feeling very warm, to hot in some areas, although temperatures dropping. Southern areas will see strong winds and coastal gales into the afternoon, with heavy rain arriving over Cornwall later. Maximum temperature 27 deg C (81 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain, heavy and thundery at times, will arrive over southern coasts through evening, then push northwards overnight. Becoming drier along southern coasts by dawn. Strong winds easing. Minimum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Saturday:
Heavy rain will clear northwards through the morning, with drier conditions and sunny spells following. Heavy and thundery showers will then develop into the afternoon. Feeling cooler than recently. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunny spells and scattered showers Sunday, some of these thundery in the early hours. Sunny spells and the odd afternoon shower on Monday and Tuesday, breezy around coastlines.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.